ZEMSTVO CONGRESS ASSEMBLES AT MOSCOW CONFERENCE

First Reading of Bill for Reorganization of Government Passed Almost Unanimously---Proposal to Submit Proposition to Emperor is Voted Down.

Moscow, July 20.—The zemstvo congress reassembled today without interruption on the part of the authorities and commenced discussion of the proposed constitution.

The meeting was again held at the residence of Prince Dolgorukoff. The first resolution proposed protested against the violation of private rights by the authorities.

A delegate from Tver maintained that the constitution was not strong enough and it was finally referred to the committee to be redrafted.

The scheme for a constitution as elaborated by a committee of the congress was next discussed and its defects criticised.

The chief points raised were the omission of adequate proportionate representation and the non-recognition of female suffrage.

By a vote of 200 to 100 it was passed the first reading of the project as submitted.

The congress rejected a proposal that after the consideration of the project the zemstvos organize a general petitioning the crown to the emperor.

M. Petrunkevitch declared that all hope regarding the government's reform scheme, which had hitherto been nourished, had proven vain. Everything was going on in the same old way. It was obvious, he said, that the plan of separating the emperor from the people was too strong and that they could not count on reform from above. They had appealed to the emperor and they should now appeal to the people. He said that the dismissal of Prince Svyatopolk-Mirsky was a direct incitement to revolution.

GUGGENHEIM INCREASES GIFT

HE ENLARGES DONATION FOR STATE SCHOOL OF MINES ADMINISTRATION BUILDING.

DENVER, July 20.—Simon Guggenheim, of the American Smelting and Refining company and of the Guggenheim Exploration company, has added approximately $50,000 to his original gift of $50,000 to the Colorado School of Mines at Golden for the building and equipping of Simon Guggenheim hall. Joseph S. Jaffa, one of the regents of the school, has returned from New York, where he was sent with Dr. Alderson, the president of the school, to lay before Mr. Guggenheim matters pertaining to the building. When the bids were opened recently it was ascertained that $50,000 would not be sufficient to complete the building according to the plans which called for the structure, 165 feet long by 60 feet in width, and to contain an auditorium, recitation rooms, library, geological and mineralogical museum and all of the executive offices. The specifications called for a building of gray stone and brick and ornamented with a tall tower. Mr. Guggenheim immediately upon [illegible] building as designed for the amount of his original donation, and told the representatives of the school that they should proceed with the construction as planned and that he would see that sufficient to complete the structure and furnish it. Mr. Guggenheim will be in Denver shortly, with his family to occupy his new home on Sherman avenue.

PARK NO LONGER UNDER SUSPICION

WARRANT FOR ARREST AND APPLICATION FOR REQUISITION PAPERS ARE WITHDRAWN.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Dr. Edward Park, the physician arrested in Norway as he disembarked from a steamer from New York and was there charged with the theft of about $30,000 worth of jewels which recently disappeared from the residence of J. J. Higginson of New York, today was cleared of all suspicion in connection with the theft. The warrants drawn for his arrest by the New York police authorities and the application for extradition papers by the United States authorities were withdrawn.

Park was a tutor in the Higginson household when the jewels disappeared. After a short search the family gave the police no more aid in the tracing the theft, and the robbery became somewhat of a mystery. Then came the arrest of Dr. Park, who had sailed for Europe soon after the theft was committed. The police made this arrest on their own suspicions but today after examining two pawnbrokers who claimed that a man answering the physician's description pawned some of the Higginson jewels with them, Assistant Attorney Bain decided that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant the officials in holding Park.

CHICAGO STRIKE NEARLY OVER

Chicago Industrial Struggle Is at Last Brought to an End.

TEAMSTERS CLOSE OUT

TEAMSTERS GIVE UP AND WILL ASK FOR FORMER JOBS—BUT ONE INSIGNIFICANT CONCESSION GAINED.

Chicago, July 20.—The teamsters' strike that has so greatly disturbed business conditions in this city for the last ten days was at 12:30 o'clock tonight officially declared off by the members of the Teamsters Joint Council. The men have been ordered to seek their old positions, and it is estimated that less than one half of them will be re-employed.

The strikers have made a complete surrender and will apply for work as individuals and without an agreement with their employers. The decision of the Teamsters Joint Council was taken at the end of a day whose events clearly foreshadowed the collapse of the strike. Three of the unions had already voted to return to work as a matter of course and it was certain that the unions which had not yet voted on the question of ending the strike would take similar action. The council believed that further effort was useless decided to call off the strike at once.

The First Break.

The first break in the ranks of the strikers came this afternoon when the lumber teamsters voted to return to work regardless of what action might be taken by any other union. Tonight the department store drivers and the express drivers voted to call off the strike and seek their old positions in the morning. It is expected that about 60 per cent of the department store drivers will be reinstated. The express drivers declared tonight that they believed that about 100 of their number would be taken back by the express companies. The express companies have declared all through, however, that not one of the men who struck would ever be reinstated.

Will Follow Suit.

The truck drivers and one or two smaller unions will vote on the question of calling off the strike, but there is no doubt that they will decide to go to old places again.

The officials of the Teamsters union declare that they expect such action to be taken.

The only concession that the men have gained by going back to work is that of the lumber drivers, the right to wear the union button. In the case of all other unions the men, in seeking their old places, tacitly agree to the terms of the employers which are that only such men would be taken back as were needed after the non-union men had been provided for, and that the question of wearing the union buttons should be left to the decision of the individual employer.

DEPOSITORS KANSAS CITY BANK ARE NOT MUCH DISTURBED

KANSAS CITY, July 20.—Up to the close of banking hours no flurry affecting other financial institutions had followed the failure today of the City National bank of Kansas City. Nothing approaching a run was experienced at any of the other local banks and, according to the officers at each place, none was expected.

The City National has been in a precarious condition for some time. Its failure had been anticipated and, therefore, no surprise was shown in banking circles today when the announcement was made that it had been taken in charge by National Bank Examiner Ames. Neither Mr. Ames nor the failed bank's officials were in a position to make a definite statement regarding the bank's condition.

The failure of the bank was due in great measure to the fact that it held upwards of $100,000 of C. J. Devlin paper, which is tied up in the recent failure of the First National bank of Topeka, of which Mr. Devlin was the principal stockholder. The only other Kansas City bank that had held Devlin paper was the American National. C. C. Jones, president of the American National bank, stated today that the $301,000 of Devlin paper held at the time of the Topeka failure had been purchased since then from the American National bank by its directors. Thus it was stated there was no cause for a run on the American National. Indeed it was announced by a member of the Kansas City clearing house that no other Kansas City bank would be permitted to fail in case of a run, which was not expected, and that the clearing house would gladly have aided the City National bank had it not been for the latter carrying so much bad paper.

GARDEN OF THE GODS TO BE PERMANENT STATE PARK?

C. E. Perkins Recently Had Lengthy Conference with General W. J. Palmer and Belief Prevails that the Latter Has Secured Treasure of Nature's Wonders---Roads to Be Constructed.

Has the Garden of the Gods changed hands?

It is asserted William J. Palmer is to further gratify the people of Colorado Springs with a gift so large in its generosity that generations to come will marvel at its magnificence.

There are many reasons for believing that C. E. Perkins, one of the managing directors of the Burlington, who for 25 years has been the owner of almost all of the Garden of the Gods, has transferred that treasure house of natural wonders to his life-long friend, General William J. Palmer. At any rate, prominent real estate men last night said that it is very likely that the deal has been made.

About three weeks ago Mr. Perkins, with a party of Burlington officials, arrived at Manitou in a special train and General Palmer rode over from Glen Eyrie and had a conference with Mr. Perkins, which lasted six or seven hours.

Ever since the Garden of the Gods has been in possession of the Burlington, it has been the ambition of General Palmer to secure it. He has spent thousands of dollars in improving the property and making it a beauty spot. He has always been willing to sell it to the United States government for a national park, but the government has never been able to see its way clear to purchase it.

Mr. Perkins has always kept the Garden open to the public. He has for 25 years retained Henry Lee Wills to look after the property and see that its lines were kept. Mr. Wills has kept a man regularly employed at the Garden all of those years to see that the visiting public did not litter the place with rubbish.

No admission to the Garden has ever been charged. Mr. Perkins is a business man of the greatest capacity, but the idea of making a fortune from nature's grandeur was abhorrent to him. Just as it always has been to General Palmer. Both men knew that the Garden for commercial purposes was worth millions, but there has never been a time when they would consent to pervert it to such uses.

When General Palmer was blazing the way to the store house of the world with his Denver & Rio Grande railroad, Mr. Perkins was molding the right of way of the Burlington with the strong hand of the pioneer. Mr. Perkins had married into the Forbes family, which then controlled, as it does now, the vast fortunes of that great system.

Railroad pioneers of the west and financial peers, General Palmer and Mr. Perkins became fast friends. When Mr. Perkins acquired the Garden of the Gods he agreed that he would never sell it without General Palmer's assent. Whatever the property was worth to men who could set a price on the sight of nature's wonders, to these builders of the west it possessed a value which no figures could express.

Several times in the last two or three years as men of financial genius have recognized the large possibilities of the property from a point of viewpoints large offers have been made to Mr. Perkins, directly and through Mrs. Wills for the 480 acres which it comprises.

General Palmer it is understood, will make the Garden more attractive by means of new roadways. No man has ever lived, builded and thrived in the broad west who possessed at once so great a genius and disposition for the building of beautiful roads and bridle paths. This genius and will General Palmer is to bring to bear on the Garden of the Gods until every rare shaded nook and towering summit shall be laid open an inspiring daze to the vision of its thousands of wondering visitors.

No information concerning the alleged purchase of the property was available at General Palmer's offices last night.

HOT WEATHER QUEENS ACTIVE

New York's Governor Requests Legislative Investigation of Life Insurance.

Hot Spell Broken Twenty-five More Deaths in New York

ALBANY, N. Y., July 20.—Governor Higgins this afternoon sent to the legislature a message recommending for its consideration the appointment of a joint commission to investigate the business of life insurance as carried on in this state.

In the senate Senator Armstrong immediately introduced a concurrent resolution, providing for the appointment of a special joint committee of three senators and five assemblymen to undertake the investigation.

Concerning his message to the legislature Governor Higgins said:

"I have not recommended nor do I now recommend that the legislature investigate the life insurance companies. I have recommended to the legislature that it take the subject under consideration so that it may dispose of it as I believe wisdom may dictate. My own position in the matter remains unchanged. I have never said that I would prevent a legislative investigation by refusing to permit the legislature to consider the matter. If a legislative investigation is to be had it is better that it should begin at once."

NEW YORK, July 20.—Paul Morton, chairman of the board of directors of the Equitable society, made the following statement today in regard to Governor's Higgins' message to the legislature recommending an investigation of the life insurance companies of the state:

"I do not object at all to an official investigation of the life insurance companies of the state. The more complete and searching the legislative investigation is the better it will suit me and the better it will be for the Equitable. We hope that the proposed investigation of all New York insurance companies will be as exhaustive as I propose to make the investigation of the affairs of the Equitable which began over a month ago.

"So far as the Equitable society is concerned, it is my intention that the policy holders, the trustees, the new directors and the board shall know the exact condition of its affairs from top to bottom."

NEW YORK, July 20.—With the thermometer reaching a maximum of only 86 degrees today, there was general relief in New York and surrounding cities from the sweltering heat of Tuesday and Wednesday. Normal summer weather prevailed throughout the day and tonight the city lacks many of the scenes incident to the crest of the hot wave. During Tuesday and Wednesday a quarter of a million persons slept on the park lawns.

Although the hot wave is a thing of the past, the effect of the recent high temperature and humidity was still apparent today. Up to 11 o'clock tonight 25 deaths had been reported in Manhattan and Brooklyn, with several others reported in Jersey City and nearby towns.

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—After several days of intensely hot weather the temperature was moderated today by rain and dropped to 71 degrees. Tonight the rain settled down to a steady drizzle, insuring a comfortable night's rest for the city.

PEACE COMMISSIONERS SAIL

Stevens and Shonts Go to Isthmus to Take Control of Canal Operations.

NEW YORK, July 20.—John F. Stevens, the newly-appointed chief engineer of the Panama canal, sailed today for Panama. Chairman Shonts of the canal commission, accompanied Mr. Stevens. Mr. Stevens will assume control of operations immediately upon arriving at the isthmus.

Neither Mr. Shonts nor Mr. Stevens has visited the isthmus before and both said they would prefer to wait until their return before talking of conditions there. They told something of the plans however and the work they proposed to do, but refused to discuss the subject of the canal building.

Mr. Shonts said he had many complaints regarding conditions on the isthmus, but had paid no attention to them.

"There are men down there who have a just complaint, and others who have nothing to do but work. They have no amusements and no friends. Men 2,000 miles from home and under these conditions get homesick, of course. What they want is amusement, healthy games and outdoor exercise. In order to remedy this we will establish a separate department, and we expect to establish club houses across the isthmus.

"Mr. Stevens and I saw the president and we talked over the canal plans in a general way. Of course the kind of canal to be built is yet to be decided upon. I should say it would take ten or twelve years to construct a sea-level canal and about five years to build a lock canal."

Mr. Shonts said that arrangements have been made to carry on the work without any interruption, whatever should Mr. Stevens resign as chief engineer. Mr. Stevens said that he was going to the canal zone with an open mind and would make the best of conditions as he finds them.

Speaking of the possibility of Chinese labor being employed, he said:

"I have tried the Chinese in this country and found them good. I will try ma[illegible] until we get the best kind of labor."

BILL TO REORGANIZE GOVERNMENT PASSES BEFORE RECESS TAKEN

Motion to Reduce Membership of the Irish Land Commission Fails to Carry and Great Excitement Follows. Premier Balfour Promises Statement Monday.

LONDON, July 20.—The government was defeated in the house of commons tonight by a majority of three on the motion to reduce the membership of the Irish land commission. On the announcement of the vote a scene of the greatest excitement was then produced by the Liberals and the Irish members [illegible]

The incident is considered hardly of sufficient importance to justify the excitement in question, but when asked by Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, the leader of the opposition, what course he intended to pursue, Premier Balfour declined to make a statement.

John Redmond, leader of the Irish party, said the premier had repeatedly declared that he would resign if defeated, and if disregarded he would be acting against all precedents.

Mr. Balfour replying very coolly, said that Mr. Redmond had greatly misread himself over a matter which could be settled in due time. He said the composition of any commission. There would be ample opportunity of proving whether the government still enjoyed the confidence of the majority of the house. The premier said he would consult his colleagues as to whether the question would again be submitted to a vote and would make a statement Monday.

After some wrangling over the question whether to adjourn until Monday, it was decided to adjourn until tomorrow.

REFORMING CHINA WAS LAST ACTIVITY

LITERARY SOCIETY HEADED CHINESE CAMPAIGN TO BOYCOTT AMERICAN GOODS.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The department of state has received a report from Samuel L. Gracey, American consul at Fuchau, China, on the meetings held by Chinese merchants at Shanghai on May 8 to discuss the American exclusion laws and the Chinese boycott of American goods. The society most active in this question was the Jen Ching (man mirror) literary society of Shanghai. More than 200 people attended and adopted resolutions declaring that they would stop consuming or ordering American goods; that the natives who worked for American merchants or who were engaged in the transportation of American goods would ask for higher wages; that the privileges given to the Hehsing company for building a railway should be withdrawn and [illegible] Chinese merchants found to deal secretly in American goods not only would be fined, but socially boycotted.

A thorough investigation of the sale of American goods, especially of American kerosene oil and American cloth was called for and the support of impartial American newspapers and missionaries in the exclusion laws was urged. The [illegible] of the meeting have been spread widely through all classes of Chinese society.

JAPANESE PEACE ENVOY IS HERE

BARON KOMURA ARRIVED AT SEATTLE YESTERDAY—NOW ON WAY TO NEW YORK.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 20.—Baron Komura and his suite left Seattle promptly at 8 o'clock tonight on New York city. They travel in private cars as the guests of President J. J. Hill and will make all haste to their destination.

Mr. Hill's invitation to a tour of the great lakes was declined by the envoy upon the plea that his instructions for haste were imperative. As a consequence the party will go to St. Paul by the Great Northern, to Chicago over the Burlington and to New York over the Pennsylvania lines.

The only hospitality accepted by Baron Komura during his few hours stay here was an informal dinner tonight given by John D. Farrell, president of the Great Northern Steamship company, at the Hotel Butler. The peace party was escorted to the train by the leading citizens of the city and by the entire Japanese association of Seattle. A heavy police guard escorted the baron's carriage.

Baron Komura was welcomed at Seattle when the Minnesota reached port just before noon by more than 1,000 Japanese. On a tug in the harbor a small crowd of Japanese exploded day fireworks in honor of the party, and a brass band interspersed Japanese and American airs as a musical welcome.

JAPANESE PEACE ENVOYS HERE

Commanders Are Convinced of Sincerity of Peace Negotiations.

WANT TO HANG ON

RUSSIAN COMMANDERS INSIST ON CARRYING ON FIGHT IN DEFINITELY REGARDLESS OF ORDERS.

GUNSHU-PASS, Manchuria, July 20, 6 p. m.—Since a month ago, when the army was under the impression that it was about to advance, the commanders have been much annoyed by talk of peace, but the appointment of M. Witte as senior peace plenipotentiary appears to have convinced the commanders of the government's determination.

The Russian army rests as usual with cavalry flanks slightly enveloping the Japanese, who remain within their defensive lines. The correspondent of the Associated Press has made a tour of the Russian and far paralleling the Japanese position for a distance of 75 miles. Their fortifications on the first line bisect Changkuru on the railroad and are [illegible] are that it would cost a third or a half of the Russian army to take them, while their second position, of equal strength, is 15 miles farther back on the hills.

Confidence Evident.

Considerable confidence is evidenced in the strength and size of the Russian position, and example of the military spirit of the superior officers is indicated in the following declaration to the correspondent of the Associated Press by one of the leading commanders:

"I have 150 machine guns and also strong artillery. I have received many men from Russia. All the infantry companies are 250 men strong and all the men are anxious to attack. Though the situation is very bad in Russia the army will advance regardless of the disorders at home. It will fight one, two or three years because the end must be victory.

"The army does not share the peace desires of the government, which has never had a war so difficult as this. But in spite of all difficulties, victory must be [illegible]

The [illegible] demonstrated during the past the [illegible] the hospitality indicated by such utterances as the foregoing, which are characteristic of the entire superior command.

The civil and military red cross organizations are working well and a slight increase in their facilities will enable them to care for the [illegible] ing from summer sickness, which is now the soje malady.

It is believed that the epidemic is great on the Japanese side because the region occupied by the Japanese army contains so many corpses buried in shallow ground, while the Russian army is operating on clean ground.

JURY DISAGREES AND CASE IS SET FOR REHEARING

PORTLAND, Ore., July 20.—After being closeted together for 36 hours and taking 42 ballots, in which the vote was 10 for conviction and two for acquittal, the jury in the case of Congressman John N. Williamson, Dr. Van Gesner and United States Commissioner Biggs reported to Judge DeHaven in the United States circuit court this afternoon that it could not agree and was discharged. Judge DeHaven asked each juror individually if there was any hope of an agreement, to which each responded in the negative. The court then ordered the clerk to enter an order of dismissal. District Attorney Heney stated that he would like to try the Williamson case over at once, whereupon Judge DeHaven set the case for tomorrow.

Judge Bennett, for the defense, was much averse to going to trial tomorrow and pleaded for time in which to "get ourselves together," but Judge DeHaven said the case would be set for tomorrow, when the work of impaneling a jury would begin and by the time this was done the witnesses would be on hand.

On entering the court room Judge DeHaven asked the jury if it had arrived at a verdict. Foreman Hinkle said it [illegible] and on being asked if there was any prospect that one would be reached, Judge DeHaven asked if the jurors understood that they could find one defendant innocent and the jurors said they did. W. C. Cook then addressed the court, saying that the jury had balloted many times with the same result, that each man had taken a part in the discussion and that it was evident that no verdict could be reached. Judge [illegible] discharged the jury from further attendance on the court.

The two jurors who stood out against the majority were for acquittal on compromise.

Of What Use Is a Bargain Time Table at a Journey's End?

Of what use is a table of "Big Bargains" just at the end of the day's shopping? for maybe the shopper won't being going down "tomorrow."

Isn't it better, Mr. Merchant, to put your day's offering in the hands of the shopper just before she goes down town, instead of just after?

If it were you yourself doing the buying wouldn't you want to know of the "good things" in time for it to do you some good—before, not after, you bought? Besides you might have saved some money if you had only known.

But how can you know—how can anyone know—when they are not told until it is too late? Would it be asking too much to ask you to let this "sink in"?

The Morning Gazette

Puts your business story in the hands of the shopper while she is waiting for it---while she yet has time to avail herself of your offerings.

Is That Not Better?

CHICAGO'S PROLIFIC POET GETS BOX OF SIX AFRICAN MON... —KEYS AND BEAUTIFUL DEER.

Chicago's alderman and Colorado Springs land, John J. Coughlin, is determined to have one of the biggest menageries in the world at his Ivywild ranch. A box of six trained monkeys, all the way from Africa, arrived here yesterday by United States express and were last night taken out to live with Mr. Coughlin's bears and other pet beasts. The monkeys were purchased through a New York animal firm and were captured by its agent in the jungles of Africa. Their journey from Africa to Colorado Springs was made in 71 days. A beautiful 400-pound deer was also received by Mr. Coughlin via United States express last Monday. The big buck was shipped from Eureka, California.

SPRINGS ENTER... OPEN SOAP LANDS

IN LA PLATA AND ARCHULETA COUNTIES WITH AID OF A BRANCH RAILROAD FROM DURANGO.

Several citizens of Colorado Springs are behind a project in the southwestern part of the state which promises to yield to each of them a fortune. They have secured 2,500 acres of coal land in La Plata and Archuleta counties, the field untouched, and, until a short time ago, undiscovered.

A branch railroad from Durango is to be built past these fields. This will connect with the Arizona & Colorado, which is being constructed between Durango, Colo., and Neco, Ariz. The Rock Island interests have surveyed a line between Neco and San Diego, Cal., and construction work is to be started in the near future. This will make it possible for Colorado coal to be sold on the Pacific coast.

Among the residents of Colorado Springs interested in the deal are George S. Elston, O. E. Hemenway, W. S. Morris, F. C. Smith, J. B. Orris, A. L. Bottomley and M. Greenburg.

HAY FEVER CONQUERED
The Latest Scientific Discovery Prevents Hay Fever and Cures Asthma.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Austrian remedy for the treatment of hay fever and asthma now being introduced in America entirely supersedes the time-worn practice of using "smokes" and other inhalations for the cure of these diseases.

The vast army who make annual pilgrimages to the mountains or seashore to escape these distressing maladies will be delighted to learn of this wonderful importation. Its results in asthma are marvelous.

This discovery, which is taken in drop doses, is called ascatco, and if taken now and continued until frost it is a positive preventative of hay fever in any climate. By special arrangement a test treatment of this specific can be obtained by mail free of any charge by writing to the Austrian dispensary, No. 83 West 25th street, New York City.

REALTY MEN PLAN TO IMPROVE STREETS

At a social session of the Real Estate exchange held at the office of John L. Franklin & Co. last night, the matter of narrowing the city's streets and broadening the sidewalks was discussed and a committee consisting of J. L. Franklin, Charles P. Bennett, J. L. Hoover, C. E. Tyler and Charles T. Fertig was appointed to suggest a method of improving the city to the city council at its next meeting. Following the business meeting Mr. Franklin "set 'em up" in a substantial style.

CHINA ADDRESSES POWERS REGARDING MANCHURIAN RIGHTS

WASHINGTON, July 20.—China's official notification to the powers that she will not recognize any arrangement regarding Manchuria concerning which she has not been consulted beforehand, has reached Washington and will be forthwith forwarded to the president at Oyster Bay. Before addressing this note to the neutral powers China sent to St. Petersburg and Tokio an identical note containing this notification. The Chinese communication is briefly worded and is so expressed that it calls for no reply.

China's insistence that Manchuria be returned to her sovereignty has the full sympathy of the Washington government, though the latter does not share in any anxiety on this point. In the preliminary negotiations here it was more than once made plain to the belligerents that whatever the result of their negotiations it was expected China would be left intact.

WITH THE POLICE

The police have ascertained that the horse Joe D., which was taken from the stables at the Roswell race track late Wednesday night is at a ranch 15 miles east of this city and is in the possession of the man who held a chattel mortgage upon the animal. The mortgagee had a right to take the animal, and the matter has been dropped.

DRIVING CLUB'S NEW QUARTERS

PLAN TO GET LEASE ON FERRIS ESTATE BUILDING AND MAKE EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS.

The Colorado Springs Social Driving club is negotiating for a lease of the second floor of the Ferris estate building at the corner of Tejon street and Pike's Peak avenue and, if it succeeds in obtaining the lease, will fit up handsome club rooms. The club also intends to build a country club at Roswell track as soon as its membership list and finances will permit.

The plan to enlarge its present club rooms in this city is a result of the financial success of last week's race meet when the club cleared [illegible] thousand dollars. The second floor of the Ferris estate building is now occupied by numerous small offices but no leases are held and the entire floor can be turned over to the Driving club if its offer, which has already been presented to agents of the building, is accepted. The floor is 50x80 feet in dimensions, giving ample room for a large club. The club will probably spend about $3,800 in fitting up new quarters.

The Driving club now has a membership of about 400 and it is expected that this number will be doubled as soon as the new quarters in the Ferris building are fitted up.

COMMITTEES NAMED BY GOVERNING BOARD

Committees have been appointed by the governing committee of the Colorado Springs Mining Stock association to serve that body for the ensuing year as follows:

Arbitration—Geo. A. Cockburn, C. C. Hemming, E. H. Gay, W. W. Williamson, J. W. Wright.

Membership—Sherwood Aldrich, F. L. Ballard, Geo. Rex Buckman, H. C. Hawks, John Matthew, J. A. Sill, H. A. Young.

Listing—J. H. Avery, S. S. Bernard, J. H. Gardner, F. J. Hobbs, E. P. Shove, J. W. D. Stovell, J. A. Wright.

DRUGGISTS PROTEST AGAINST DEPOSITIONS

The work of taking depositions for presentation before the city council at the meeting next Monday night is being pushed by City Attorney Robinson, and that side of the cases will be ready for presentation next Monday. Judge S. H. Kinsley, for the druggists, has entered a protest against the proceedings, asserting that the council has not jurisdiction. Opposition from an unexpected source has arisen to the proceedings before the council, and it is understood that this opposition comes from the radical element of prohibitionists. This element alleges that the ordinances provide that the council shall revoke the license of any druggist convicted in a court of competent jurisdiction, and the druggists having been found guilty and fined in the police court, have no right to another hearing before the council.

THE NEW VENDETTA.

The Marie Fountain company, Western, will close their engagement at the Opera house for this season with three performances of Marie Corelli's great play, "The New Vendetta." The play will be given tonight, tomorrow matinee and night.

"The New Vendetta" is written in six acts and is considered to be one of the most successful of plays that has been dramatized from the works of this famous writer.

The Fountain company's cast appears to an excellent advantage in this production and it is also otherwise enhanced by the scenic and mechanical effects that are employed in the production.

The vaudeville artists with the company will give the best things that they have in store and the farewell performances of the company will no doubt be among the best that this popular company have given during their long stay in this city.

The ever popular prices of 10, 20 and 30 cents at night and 10 and 20 cents at matinees will also prevail during these closing performances.

Commencing next Monday night, July 24, Mr. George W. Donahue and the Eastern Fountain company will appear for a week's engagement. "A Soldier's Sweetheart," a strong comedy drama, will be the company's opening play.

TWO SWEDE GIRLS ARE DEAD AND TWO MAY DIE

WENT THROUGH WASHED-OUT BRIDGE AT NIGHT BUT PASSENGERS JUMPED IN NICK OF TIME.

J. F. Lee, of 333 North Royer street, and a friend had a narrow escape from drowning late Wednesday night when their automobile went through an opening in the Iowa street bridge and landed in the bed of Shooks Run.

The bridge was built 7 feet, during the high water on May 24, only a portion of the east end being left standing. The city has maintained barriers and lights at the break at night, but Wednesday night the barriers were stolen and the lights removed. Mr. Lee had been in the country and was returning after dark without any lights upon the machine and was running along cautiously. The machine is not provided with a brake of any kind and when the hole in the bridge was seen it was too late to stop the auto. Mr. Lee and his friend sprang from the machine and landed safely upon the bridge, allowing the auto to sink upon the sand.

The machine was removed yesterday and was found to be but slightly damaged. Street Commissioner Gray yesterday had heavy posts and barriers erected at each end of the bridge to prevent any accident in the future.

PARKING AT THE D. & R. G. DEPOT

SURVEYORS SET GRADE STAKES. CITY WILL CO-OPERATE WITH RAILROAD ENGINEERS.

Surveyors are at work setting the grade stakes for the improvements at the Rio Grande depot and a force of men will be at work on the parking tomorrow.

Solid granite curbing will be placed along the eastern boundary of the railroad property on what is the gutter of the west side of Sierra Madre street. This will allow several feet of parking between the depot and the curbing which will be cut with driveways to the main entrance of the building. Another driveway will lead to the express office at the south end of the building, and all driveways and walks will be paved with broken slag brought from Pueblo and surfaced with disintegrated granite.

The work of the railroad company will be followed by the city surfacing Sierra Madre street and North Park place with disintegrated granite, making that portion of the city an attractive spot.

LABORER BRINGS ACTION AGAINST PORTLAND C. M. COMPANY FOR INJURIES SUSTAINED.

In an action for personal injuries Andrew Duke seeks to recover from the Portland Gold Mining company the sum of $25,000. The action is filed in the district court. The complaint sets forth that on May 27, last, the plaintiff, who was employed at the Portland mill, was directed to help loosen an endless belt elevator which is used in hoisting broken rock from the crusher to the upper floors of the mill. The elevator had become clogged and stopped and while the plaintiff was at work and having hold of the belt, the machinery was started and he was dragged from the top of the elevator on the third floor to the basement. The bones of the legs were broken, joints dislocated, his back bruised and injured, and he received such other injuries that he says he will be a cripple for life.

ANNUAL MEETING TO BE HELD THURSDAY

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 20.—The annual meeting of the Independence Consolidated company, better known as the Hull City Placer, will be held in Cheyenne next Thursday, and it is likely that some action will be taken concerning the option on the property held by Messrs. Tutt, Penrose and MacNeill. The option has been out for some time, and a number of examinations have been made by the prospective purchasers. It is understood that the price is low compared to the prospective value of the territory.

The property is situated between the Vindicator and the Findley mine, two of the greatest producers of the district. That good ore shoots extend to the Independence Consolidated property, which is now being operated under the lessing system, has been proved by a number of lessees who are operating on this ground.

HIGHGRADERS TO HAVE HEARING TODAY

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 20.—The highgrading cases against 10 or 12 prominent assayers of the district have been continued for preliminary hearing until tomorrow morning. An agreement to a continuance was reached just before the cases were to come up this morning by District Attorney Hamlin, who came up last night to try the cases, and James A. Orr, who has been retained by the assayers, together with W. D'A. Lombard, both of Colorado Springs.

It is probable that direct informations may be filed in the district court early tomorrow morning, in which event the cases will come up for the September term in the district court.

Word was received today that Thomas C. Brown, one of the men wanted, had been arrested in Denver with a trunk containing 600 lbs. of high grade ore valued at about $1,500.

Brown has been operating a saloon in Goldfield for several months.

THREE ARTISTS SECURED FOR SUNDAY CONCERTS AT CASINO

Five celebrated artists have been secured for next Sunday's concerts at the Broadmoor casino. Fearing that the noted musicians were in the state, Manager Bailey at once made efforts to secure them, at the casino, and was successful in securing them for both the afternoon and evening concert for next Sunday. Not only are the two noted in their line, but will bring before local music lovers that charming, but rare instrument, the Italian harp.

Frances Hughes Wade is the harpist, and with her husband, G. Rawson Wade, the famous baritone, she is en route to Denver, where both will appear during the next week with the Denver Symphony orchestra. Although their stay in Colorado Springs will be short, music lovers will have opportunity to hear them at the casino in some of their best numbers.

At the afternoon concert Mrs. Wade will play "March Triumphale" by Godefroid. Mr. Wade will sing "She Alone Charmeth by Sadness," by Gounod. At the evening concert, Mrs. Wade will play the "Grand Fantasie" of Parish Alvers, one of the most elaborate compositions for the harp, while Mr. Wade will sing Schumann's "Two Grenadiers." Anticipating the appearance of these well known artists, Director Barnes of the Casino orchestra is arranging programs for the two concerts that will be in keeping with the musical excellence of the visiting artists.

Fraternal Union of America has changed their meeting night from Monday to Friday. Special business will be transacted Friday, July 21.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH DENVER.

THE people of Denver ought to tender a vote of thanks to William E. Curtis, the correspondent, for setting them right with the East. In a letter from the capital of Colorado published in the Chicago Record-Herald, the Philadelphia Press and the New York Globe, Mr. Curtis explains that the bad reputation which Denver has in the East is wholly undeserved, but that it is directly traceable to the Denver newspapers.

These newspapers have injured the city and state not only by printing false or exaggerated reports of commonplace events, but by sending such reports to Eastern papers. The sources of news for the outside world are controlled almost entirely by the local papers, so the only information concerning Denver and Colorado which Eastern people can secure is distorted out of all semblance of truth by mendacious writers who adopt this means of swelling their incomes.

Mr. Curtis is perfectly right when he says: "Everything that happens, no matter how trivial or commonplace, is magnified into a sensation, under the mistaken idea that the public is easily deceived, when as a matter of fact the newspapers themselves are the victims of their own prevarications." There is not a newspaper in Denver whose news reports of any political event, however insignificant, may be relied on. It is a well-defined principle of reputable newspapers everywhere that, no matter what the editorial policy may be, the news columns shall be kept free from bias. Yet the Denver paper which makes the greatest pretensions to respectability, and which boasts of its "conservatism," regularly publishes on its first page under the guise of news articles matter which is nothing less than expressions of editorial opinion. It is served up to the reader as news, but it is so distorted as to be worthless.

If exaggeration for the mere sake of producing sensations were the only offense the public could tolerate these papers with better grace. But sensationalism is in comparison of minor importance. There is no city in the United States where the journalistic atmosphere is so immoral as it is in Denver, no place where the generally accepted ethics of the profession are so completely debased. One of the papers there is commonly believed to subsist largely on blackmail, and from what the public has been permitted to learn there is not the slightest reason to disbelieve it. Two of the papers, owned by a United States Senator whom Mr. Curtis mildly describes as having "lost all sense of propriety," persistently violate decency and excuse their misconduct by calling it "enterprise." Among the Denver newspapers this word is made to cover a multitude of sins.

We doubt whether such papers would be tolerated in any other city. In an Eastern community a paper conducted according to the standards of the worst of these miserable sheets would long since have exhausted the patience of the people, and a way would have been found either to reform or suppress it. But the people of Denver have grown accustomed to these peculiar journalistic methods, and regard their exponents with indifference. Everybody knows what to expect, and nobody is fooled except the newspaper men themselves.

But the people of Denver have a deeper interest in the subject, which is well expressed in this sentence from Mr. Curtis' letter: "There is not the slightest doubt that in their mistaken zeal and false enterprise the Denver newspapers are keeping away useful capital and immigration, and are attracting to the city and the state undesirable classes of people who seek excitement and adventure."

This is a phase of the situation to which the people of Denver, and indeed of all Colorado, may well give serious thought.

THE AMERICAN CORN CROP.

KANSAS is rejoicing over the prospects of a big corn crop. So are Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois and all of the other great corn-growing states. With a larger acreage the condition of the growing corn in the Sunflower State is now 20 per cent better than at this time last year. In Missouri it is reported to be 17 per cent better and in each of the other states named, except Nebraska, there is a substantial gain over 1904. The total corn acreage of the country this year is given by the Department of Agriculture as 94,011,000, an increase of 2,030,000 acres over last year. With the exception of 1901 this is the largest acreage on record, and the yield is estimated at 2,500,000,000 bushels, worth to the farmers $1,000,000,000.

Since 1893 the corn acreage of this country has increased 22,000,000 acres, and in ten years the annual yield has risen from 1,615,496,131 bushels to 2,523,000,000 bushels. In 1902 the United States produced this latter amount of corn as against 659,000,000 bushels for all the rest of the world. The principal other corn-growing countries are Austria-Hungary, Mexico, Roumania, Italy, Russia and Egypt. But while the area of production in this country has steadily increased in the last quarter century, and the yield has doubled, these other countries have shown very little gain in either respect.

For several years the American consular service has worked hard to bring about the more general use of corn as food in Europe and Asia. But the European peasantry are chary of innovations and cling to the black bread of their forefathers as tenaciously as they cling to ancient manners and customs. Of late, however, this prejudice is being overcome, and an increasing export market is being opened to American corn. But it will probably always be that the most important market for this cereal will be the live stock interests of our own country, for there is no other grain so well adapted to fattening purposes.

M. Witte says if the Japanese terms are not satisfactory Russia will resume the war and fight for years, if necessary. Those Russian statesmen are hopeless. Even the one who is supposed to be the most sensible and conservative of them all converses through his chapeau as glibly as though he believed all the people in the world to be fools.

NEW YORK'S CONSUMPTIVE HOSPITAL.

NEW YORK CITY is soon to have a municipal institution which is described as "the first permanent fireproof structure erected in this country for the exclusive treatment of consumptives." This tuberculosis hospital is to be built by the Health Department at a cost of $150,000, and its equipment will be complete in every particular. It will be three stories high, with double-decked porches, so constructed that patients can sit in the open air in any kind of weather; solariums, special treatment rooms, etc. There will be four wards, each with accommodations for twenty-five patients.

The decision of the New York government to erect and maintain this costly hospital is one of the many evidences of the widespread interest now being taken in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis. Medical science concentrated its attention on the "Great White Plague" several years ago, and as a result of its study the dread disease is now partially robbed of its terrors. Its ravages are steadily growing less, and it is predicted that within the next quarter-century it will drop down to a low place in the list of death-dealing diseases.

It is clearly established that the prime essentials to the successful treatment of tuberculosis are fresh air and sunlight, pure water and nourishing food. But it is equally well established that some fresh air is better than other fresh air. A tuberculosis patient may live outdoors and sleep outdoors all the time, but if the atmosphere is cold and damp he is likely to receive more harm than benefit.

This is why conscientious physicians in the East invariably send such patients to Colorado, or some other region where they may enjoy the advantages of a cool, dry climate with the maximum amount of sunshine. A measurable degree of success has been attained in the Adirondacks with the open-air treatment, but when all is said and done the fact remains that the very great majority of cases, especially those in which the disease is advanced, must be sent to Colorado. The New York municipal hospital is a splendid benefaction, and will doubtless accomplish an excellent work among those who can not come to a high altitude, but it is not likely to deal successfully with advanced cases.

Somebody in Missouri nominated Tom Lawson for President recently, and Mr. Lawson has shown that he is a good fellow by naming Governor Johnson of Minnesota for the same office. Presidential nominations made nowadays are all right so far as they go, but they will be at a very great discount in 1908.

The deer hunting season in the Adirondacks does not begin until September, but a hunter shot a man the other day under the impression that he was a deer. The law protects deer part of the year, but there is no closed season for men.

There are a good many people in Eastern cities just now who probably wish they could have sailed with Peary for the North Pole.

"Dismiss your fears," said the Czar to the Zemstvo leaders, "the imperial will is unshaken." Nicholas talks just like a comic opera potentate and his talk amounts to about as much.

Eastern people who complained of the cold last January are now sorry they spoke.

DRAWING A FINE LINE.

In Tennessee people are refusing to accept Carnegie libraries. What is the matter with the money? RUSSIA'S FYE ON NORWAY.

And the queerest part of the blindness of the Norwegians is that they will not see that now more than ever Russia needs Norway for a maritime province. The prospect of a speedy peace with Japan means that the long Russian fight for the control of the Pacific has ended in failure. Russia must have a great navy and must have a long stretch of feasible seacoast. The Black Sea is closed now. It will be closed forever if the rest of Europe can keep so formidable a neighbor bottled up in the inland sea. The one opening to the Atlantic lies through Norway.—Boston Advertiser.

A WEDDING AT PAW PAW CORNER.

Miss Mamie Patterwinkle, one of our town's eligible young ladies, was wed last night to John Sarbach, the estimable porter at the saloon. It was a fine spectacle. Miss Mamie being robed in white from tip to toe and John having on a full dress coat. George Patterwinkle gave his daughter away and this added pomp to the ceremony. The entire business would have passed off with due credit had not John had to mash Ed Lyons in the face outside the house after the wedding for soaking him with an old No. 12 shoe for Grandfather Patterwinkle's. Mr. and Mrs. Sarbach will go to Kansas City on a short wedding trip until such time as the groom can get a pass or half rate tickets. The Bazoo wishes them much pleasant happiness on life's sea and hopes that never a thought of divorce will come to them until death do them part asunder.—Paw Paw (Mo.) Bazoo.

TIMEKEEPERS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Miles Sherin is noted for having the heaviest gold watch and chain on the Columbia river. Mr. Hunter of Goble is noted for having the biggest silver watch and chain in Columbia county. Now comes Mr. Swett of Rainier to the front. He has a watch on display in his window eight inches in diameter and a chain six feet long. It is worth seeing. The watch and chain are the largest in Oregon. That's two better.—Rainier Correspondence St. Helena (Ore.) Mist.

JOB FOR A CHURCH BOUNCER.

The office of "Grand Bouncer" should be created by the church board of trustees and the office filled by some one of determination and strength, who would see that proper decorum was observed in the church. This is the only way to deal with persons who have no sense of propriety and are totally devoid of the feeling of shame.—Stockton (Utah) Sentinel.

DAN'S SQUARE MEAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan L. Cort, Mrs. Fitz and daughter of Denver, and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Moffet and children took dinner with Miss Hannah Jones, south of town, Sunday—"a famous chicken pie dinner" is the way Dan puts it—the kind that he so dearly loves.—Elizabeth (Colo.) Banner.

MUSIC AND MILKING TIME.

We hope the "Parsifal" company which is coming will realize that this is the banner dairying district of the west and give long intermissions between the afternoon and evening performances. Most of us have to go home to milk.—Abilene (Kas.) Reflector.

A Novel of the Divorce Problem

"I dare say," said Airlie, hurriedly, and changed the subject. She had described Katherine's Christmas dinner table as being recruited from the highways and hedges, for, in addition to Whitney's forlorn young school teacher and the scamstress, Regester was to bring with him a medical friend who, as he told Katharine, was "living the life" in one of the most god-forsaken quarters of the city. "Though," he added, "Reynolds would object to my saying that. He would protest that nothing can be god-forsaken. It is simply misunderstood."

"Living the life!" exclaimed Airlie. "What on earth does that mean?"

"Perhaps you'll know when you see him," replied Regester. "He belongs to what he calls the Brotherhood of One. He will affiliate only with individuals because he believes that the letter of organization kills the spirit. As soon as a man feels that he is part of a machine, his sense of responsibility weakens. Once, in a time of great stress, he showed me his dedication, as he calls it, for he holds that the soul must put its vision on record, lest it forget. He is a monk of a new type, without vow, without creed, without faith, but with a devotion to all that is noblest that just sweeps you off your feet. But on the outside you might mistake him for an ordinary man. Don't."

"I didn't like to ask Dr. Regester," said Katharine to Airlie afterward, "but I suppose this Dr. Reynolds had taken a vow of celibacy to himself. So I hope you'll bear that in mind, dear, and act accordingly."

"Act how?" asked Airlie. Her blue eyes danced with mischief. "A celibate man," she repeated. "What a nice thing! I know I shall like him. But, mother, dear!" she raised her voice, "you simply must not flirt with the young man who's coming to-day. Kathie wished me to give you the hint."

Mrs. Casler showed serious signs of fermentation, and Katharine protested, but the door bell rang.

Naturally, at the dinner table, Airlie immediately appropriated the conversation. "We had several tons of coal put in yesterday," she remarked, "and, of course, those teamster men splashed it all over, and then pretended they had picked it up. The lawn looked a sight, but I hadn't any time to go out and pick it up, and Katharine isn't a bit handy about little things like that."

"What about Whitney?" asked Regester.

"Whitney? Why, bless my heart! he's a boy. And don't you know that a boy is a being devoted to physical development solely by artificial exercise? He was never intended to be used. 'It was different in my day,' sighed Airlie, with a sweep of her eye in her mother's direction. "We didn't allow children to waste the golden moments of life in the idle frivolity of play then. Little girls cut whole cloth into scraps and sewed them together, and little boys picked potato bugs and sprouted toward greatness with the sweat of honest toil upon their brows. They sweat just the same now, but the sweat is purely decorative. There's no money in it for anybody. In fact, when you consider the outfits they require to sweat in, it's a distinctly extravagant luxury. Oh, I'll admit there are a few boys left who still work because, while I was watching that disorderly coal out of my window, up skipped a dirty little half-clothed imp and began hustling the lumps into a sack. All the time he kept an anxious eye on the house, he was so afraid he'd be caught. That was what bothered me. I wanted him to have the coal, for he looked as if he hadn't been warm since last August, but I wanted him to steal it happily. What business has a cold, hungry child with a conscience?"

"I see," said Dr. Reynolds. "You felt that the wrong lay not in the act, but only in his belief that the act was wrong."

"Yes. It seemed to me that he had a perfect right to steal. The only outrage was in his knowing he was stealing."

"You thought that if he had only been less moral, he would really have been more so."

"Yes. Oh, I got badly tangled arguing the question. I felt as if I was watching a problem that ended by involving the entire social and moral dissensation of the universe."

"You were."

Airlie made a gesture of despair. "Why, just think! The boy was only eight years old. I dare say it was probably a case of steal or freeze. Now, don't you think that in the face of such necessity as that, whoever taught him that it was wrong to steal committed a crime against him?"

"How do you know that anyone taught him that? And do you think that it is only the comfortable in this world who have a right to a moral code?"

"I do," said Airlie, stoutly.

Dr. Reynolds smiled suddenly. He was a plain man, flaxen, blue-eyed, irregular-featured, but his smile was transforming. In it and in his voice there was a spell of benediction. "Then your little Arab would not only be cold and hungry, but you would deny him any share in that life of the spirit that you yourself treasure as your greatest possession."

Airlie crimsoned. "Ah, I never thought of it from that side. That is a new idea for me. But you can't think how honestly worried I was. I felt that unless I could free that child's conscience, the thought of him would haunt me forever. I was afraid to call to the boy lest he run. But my window was open a bit, and I picked up a box of sweets I had bought for Whitney and tied a string about it, and quickly lowered it to the ground. I knew his curiosity would hold him. Just as it touched the ground I called out: 'It's for you. Merry Christmas, boy!' Then I looked out at him. He took off his hat to me and pointed silently to his sack of coal. 'It's all right,' I said. 'We like you to have it.' Then I threw down a dollar to him, for I remembered that sweets are not a sustaining article. Of course, you will laugh at me and think I acted very foolishly—she turned to Regester—"you think I haven't a serious thought, that I am just a silly little singing girl." Her tone revealed a sudden, strangely troubled depth.

"Hal" ejaculated Dr. Reynolds, looking from Airlie to Regester. "Why, Miss Casler, he is of all men the one who does the most irrational things. As far as you are concerned, I am certain you could not have done more wisely with the boy than you did. But Regester—!" he made an exclamation with his fine, artistic hands—"why, he would have thrown up the window and offered to pay the boy's way through college."

There was a shout of laughter at this, and then Airlie said, turning a critical eye upon Regester, "Ah, I see! This is quite a new light upon your character."

"Oh, I can tell you lots 'bout him," said Reynolds, looking with unaffected fondness at his chum. "But you surely don't mean to say that he poses out here as a sensible man? I could not have believed in such duplicity."

"Sensible!" echoed Airlie. "You'd suppose he had the exclusive monopoly of all the sense there is. His idea is to make one feel like a paper butterfly. And he succeeds. When I'm through with Vecellio I'm going to emigrate to a desert island where there aren't any problems—nothing but sea and stones and sky."

"No men at all," said Regester.

"Not one. Nothing but birds, and beasts, and flowers."

"But wouldn't the men inevitably be included in that list—from your standpoint, I mean?"

Airlie ignored him. But presently she asked: "And when will you be through with Vecellio?"

"Apparently he will soon be through with me. He says the avengers of blood have nearly tracked him to his lair, and that some morning I shall come and find him weltering bloodily in great wads of fatal gore."

"But, Airlie, what is it really all about?" inquired Katharine.

"My dear, I can't think. Sometimes I'm tempted to believe that he really did murder somebody. I quite hope he did, for his character poetically demands murder somewhere, in his case, to be consistent."

"Daughter Airlie," protested Mrs. Casler, "how can you say such things?"

"Because I've had so much more experience with the devil and Vecellio than you have, dearie," said Airlie, sweetly.

As the girl had remarked to Katharine that morning, she was dressed "to slay," and certainly her exceptional robes became her well. Her gown was a dainty little gray embroidered grenadine, edged about the pretty round throat with purple velvet pansies. The man from the shires looked at her with glad eyes and loved her, as he would have loved any other creation, still, clean and sweet from the hand of God.

"Of course you know," said Airlie coyly to the school teacher, "that Dr. Regester is working to get our a parent on a marriage scheme. It's like this: There's to be a state examining board to pair off all the young people according to the condition of their lungs and teeth. Instead of everybody going up to Jerusalem to be taxed we'd all go to the court house to be fitted to a mate and the doctors would take in the tax. Oh, it's a great scheme. Would there be no chance for an appeal from the decision of the board?" She looked gravely at Regester.

"Certainly not," he answered emphatically. "But as the system would not be in force on a desert island inhabited by only one woman, you have no occasion to worry."

"I won't say a thing to you for ten minutes," said Airlie, with a great appearance of offense, and she became at once an argument with the seamstress on the Pope's Soliloquy a Browning club being that little woman's chosen form of dissipation after the long, weary day's of needle in needle out, she had inherited a soul-thirst for beauty from a mother who was slowly dying of cancer through an eternity of agony. Her mother was an excellent woman—and aware of it. Perhaps but for Browning the girl's soul would have died within her.

After dinner was over a solemn procession was formed, headed by Whitney, which proceeded to the drawing-room with stately step, but once there the boy cavorted, madly about the tree of which this was his first allopse. Airlie went to the piano and sang, "God rest you, merry gentlemen," and then the dismantling of the tree began.

"Oh, Mrs. Mackemer, how could you?" exclaimed the school-teacher. She looked at the treasures in her lap with wet eyes, and through the mist of happy tears her face struck Katharine for the first time as pretty. She was glad that she had yielded to the temptation of a gilded silk blouse for the drab-colored girl. Sympathy and blue silk might make a new creature of her yet.

The seamstress said nothing. She had propped up a picture of the Christ intended for her father in front of her and was looking at it with deep, visioning eyes. There was no face visible, the artist had hidden it in wonderful suffering hands, but the majesty of the figure inspired.

"Now, is everything off the trees, dears?" called Airlie. "Have you all got what you want? No, wait—there's something more for Whitney."

The child took the package and untied the string, letting the stiff white paper flutter to the floor. Inside a cardboard box was a dark-blue leather case, with his initials in gold upon it.

"What can it be, Cousin Airlie? Oh, where is mother?"

"I don't know, dear." The girl's heart cramped intuitively.

Whitney opened the case slowly and peered in. Then he shut it sharply, as for contempt, because in his newspaper he accused that tribunal of dishonesty, corruption and partisanship in decision affecting local politics.

Last year the legislature of Colorado passed an act consolidating the city and municipal governments of Denver and making them one and the same. When the act took effect the officials then in office, who happened to be Republicans, were supplanted by others appointed at a special session who happened to be Democrats. The opponents of the merger went into court, and after a full and fair hearing the supreme court of the state declared the act unconstitutional and almost of the proceedings under it null and void. This decision threw the Democratic officials who had been chosen at the special election and restored to office the Republicans who had been displaced.

Mr. Patterson, a member of the United States senate, [illegible] experience and the responsible editor of two newspapers, became so hysterical over the displacement of the democratic officials that he lost all sense of propriety and attacked the court in a most violent and intemperate manner. Strangers who read his comments would have supposed that the court was governed entirely by personal and political motives and had been induced by corrupt influences to render an unjust and dishonest decision.

"A Habit Which Patterson Has Acquired."

This is a habit which Senator Patterson has acquired. Everything he does not approve is fundamentally wrong and he can not tolerate a difference of opinion on any subject. On this occasion he went a little farther than usual and his attempt to convince the people that the highest judicial tribunal in the state is unworthy of confidence was resented by the bar association, which has called him to account. Mr. Patterson has made an appearance in response to the summons, but the court has been generous enough to postpone a hearing until next October rather than interfere with his plans to visit the Philippines as a member of Secretary Taft's party.

The incident has created a profound impression and has served to convince the thinking people of Denver that the reputation of their city and their state needs a good deal of looking after and that their reputation in the east needs repairs. There is not the slightest doubt that in their mistaken zeal and false enterprise the Denver newspapers are keeping away useful capital and immigration, and are attracting to the city and the state undesirable classes of people who seek excitement and adventure.

There is no doubt that Denver is a live town and a fast town. A certain portion of the people are extravagant and are always doing sensational things, but the real Denver is very different, and the solid stratum of the population is not responsible for the behavior of the rejected few who come down here from the mining towns in the mountains to "blow in" their money or migrate from the east to get easy divorces. Several men have made a million or two in a few months and squandered it in a few months more.

Perhaps some of the sensational stories you read in the newspapers are actually true. One of the dailies of yesterday or the day before contained an elaborate yarn about an honest miner who picked up a million or more in the grass roots, went to London, made the acquaintance of the king and became an intimate crony of his majesty. He expended his entire fortune in the entertainment of royalty and the nobility of England, returned to Colorado broke, married a girl who kept the cigar stand in one of the business blocks, went back to the mines, and, with the assistance, made two or three millions more and is now in Denver celebrating the restoration of his fortunes with his old friends. This is a pretty story, and perhaps it is true, for the names of the characters were given. It sounds, however, as if it were written by one accustomed to deal with fiction rather than fact.

Denver's Bad Name Due to Its Press

William E. Curtis Says Yellow Journals of Capital City Disgrace Both City and State in Eyes of Easterners.

WRITING from Denver to the Chicago Record-Herald, William E. Curtis says: Denver has a bad reputation among the people of the east—a reputation for sensations, for extravagances, political conspiracies and corruptions, dramatic marriages and divorces, which is undeserved and is due to the yellow journals which are printed in this city and to the efforts of irresponsible correspondents to make a living. Everything is magnified as much as possible; everything is treated in the superlative degree.

Denver is the victim of exaggeration. If you will read the headlines in the newspapers any day you will recognize what I mean. If somebody falls into an ordinary ditch he is represented as plunging headlong into a bottomless chasm, if some servant girl receives a legacy of a few thousand dollars from an uncle up in the mountains she is described as the heiress of millions. Everything that happens, no matter how trivial or commonplace, is magnified into a sensation, under a mistaken idea that the public is easily deceived, when as a matter of fact the newspapers themselves are the victims of their own prevarications. A young woman who tends the news stand at a hotel remarked:

"One paper's just about as bad as the other. You can't rely on any of them; they are half full of lies and half full of exaggerations and everybody knows it, so nobody's fooled.

False Reports of Strike Did Great Harm.

Last fall, during the trouble with the miners at Cripple Creek, the correspondents of eastern newspapers at Denver, Colorado Springs and other places did the state an infinite amount of harm by similar exaggerations, by representing that the disturbances were ten times as bad as they actually were, and it will be a long time before Colorado can recover from that reputation. I received letters from people who wanted to spend the winter in Colorado Springs, but were afraid to come for fear they might be shot down in the streets or have their houses burned over their heads. On my return to the east I was questioned by several good people who were under the impression that half the cities of Colorado were controlled by mobs and the other half by vigilance committees.

They got their ideas from the dispatches sent to eastern newspapers by correspondents in Denver, Colorado Springs, Cripple Creek and other places. These correspondents made their dispatches as sensational as possible in order to get them printed and paid for. If they had stated the facts, if they had given accurate descriptions of conditions, the newspapers would not have published the news, because it would have been commonplace.

It is true that there have been sensational events in Denver, Cripple Creek and the rest of the state connected with politics and labor troubles, and the eastern public became accustomed to reading exciting news from Colorado; but the disturbances are not chronic nor more frequent than elsewhere, and the real Denver, the real Colorado, is very different from what has been represented.

The Denver newspapers are chiefly responsible for these misrepresentations. Competition is so keen that they try to outdo each other in scarlet display lines and exaggerations, although I believe that a serious, conservative newspaper, printing nothing but true and useful information, would be cordially supported by the public and could do much to set Denver and other cities of Colorado in their proper light before the world.

Patterson and the Supreme Court.

We have recently had an illustration. The responsible editor of two of the Denver papers (morning and evening), a member of the United States senate, has been summoned before the supreme court of the state by a committee of the bar association to show cause why he should not be disbarred and punished for contempt because in his newspapers he accused that tribunal of dishonesty, corruption and partisanship in decision affecting local politics.

Last year the legislature of Colorado passed an act consolidating the city and municipal governments of Denver and making them one and the same. When the act took effect the officials then in office, who happened to be Republicans, were supplanted by others appointed at a special session who happened to be Democrats. The opponents of the merger went into court, and after a full and fair hearing the supreme court of the state declared the act unconstitutional and almost of the proceedings under it null and void. This decision threw the Democratic officials who had been chosen at the special election and restored to office the Republicans who had been displaced.

Mr. Patterson, a member of the United States senate, [illegible] experience and the responsible editor of two newspapers, became so hysterical over the displacement of the democratic officials that he lost all sense of propriety and attacked the court in a most violent and intemperate manner. Strangers who read his comments would have supposed that the court was governed entirely by personal and political motives and had been induced by corrupt influences to render an unjust and dishonest decision.

"A Habit Which Patterson Has Acquired."

This is a habit which Senator Patterson has acquired. Everything he does not approve is fundamentally wrong and he can not tolerate a difference of opinion on any subject. On this occasion he went a little farther than usual and his attempt to convince the people that the highest judicial tribunal in the state is unworthy of confidence was resented by the bar association, which has called him to account. Mr. Patterson has made an appearance in response to the summons, but the court has been generous enough to postpone a hearing until next October rather than interfere with his plans to visit the Philippines as a member of Secretary Taft's party.

The incident has created a profound impression and has served to convince the thinking people of Denver that the reputation of their city and their state needs a good deal of looking after and that their reputation in the east needs repairs. There is not the slightest doubt that in their mistaken zeal and false enterprise the Denver newspapers are keeping away useful capital and immigration, and are attracting to the city and the state undesirable classes of people who seek excitement and adventure.

There is no doubt that Denver is a live town and a fast town. A certain portion of the people are extravagant and are always doing sensational things, but the real Denver is very different, and the solid stratum of the population is not responsible for the behavior of the rejected few who come down here from the mining towns in the mountains to "blow in" their money or migrate from the east to get easy divorces. Several men have made a million or two in a few months and squandered it in a few months more.

Perhaps some of the sensational stories you read in the newspapers are actually true. One of the dailies of yesterday or the day before contained an elaborate yarn about an honest miner who picked up a million or more in the grass roots, went to London, made the acquaintance of the king and became an intimate crony of his majesty. He expended his entire fortune in the entertainment of royalty and the nobility of England, returned to Colorado broke, married a girl who kept the cigar stand in one of the business blocks, went back to the mines, and, with the assistance, made two or three millions more and is now in Denver celebrating the restoration of his fortunes with his old friends. This is a pretty story, and perhaps it is true, for the names of the characters were given. It sounds, however, as if it were written by one accustomed to deal with fiction rather than fact.

BACK BROKEN BY A FALLING TREE

Boss Foster Victim of Accident While Cutting Timber Near Clyde---Brought Here After Five Hours of Intense Suffering.

Ross Foster, aged 27 years, an employe of the Clyde Lumber company, and the husband of a young wife and two little children, lies at his temporary home at No. 209 South Cascade avenue, with a broken back as the result of a most distressing accident which occurred one mile from Clyde at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The young man is putting up a brave fight for his life, but grave fears are entertained.

Foster and his brother, S. N. Foster who is a few years his senior were cutting down a pinon tree, which is a hard pine, with a saw when the accident occurred. Against the tree which they were felling was another tree and this second tree was uprooted by the fall of the first. This was not anticipated by the woodsmen and the second tree, a pine about one foot in circumference, struck the younger brother in the back near the neck and bore him to the earth. He was doubled up by the fall with such force that his back was broken.

Foster lay there conscious of his terrible pain while his brother ran to the station of Clyde, a mile away, for help. S. N. Foster could find no conveyance at Clyde, and then he made his way to where the wife resides. Mrs. Foster was found sunny on the porch of her home, and the grave news had to be told. He was in the store on the night of the alleged sale but could not remember Holliman, whom he knew well, to have been in the store.

The court expressed the opinion that the prosecution had established the case, and that the defense had not only violated the law of selling in less quantity than one quart but had violated the state law in selling to a minor. The maximum penalty of $300 and costs was imposed. Notice of appeal was given.

Trial of the case against the Korsmeyer Drug company was begun at the afternoon session of the court, the charge being for selling liquor in less quantity than one quart to J. R. Depp. The case was similar to those against the other druggists, and resulted in the conviction of the defendant. A fine of $175 and costs was imposed, and notice of appeal given.

Six appeals from the police court were filed in the county court yesterday by attorneys for the convicted druggists, as follows: City vs. Otto Felminger, two cases; the Colorado Springs Drug company, J. H. Harrison, Charles L. Zolnist and C. E. Smith, one case each.

BRIGGS AND COTTON DRUG COMPANY VIOLATED STATE LAW AS WELL AS CITY ORDINANCE---KORSMEYER DRUG COMPANY FINED $175---SIX APPEALS TO COUNTY COURT.

The Briggs & Cotton Drug company was found guilty of selling liquor to minors in the police court yesterday morning and fined $300 and costs, this being the maximum penalty, and the first time it has been imposed in the liquor cases. At the afternoon session the Korsmeyer Drug company was found guilty and fined $175 and costs for selling liquor in less quantity than one quart.

Additional testimony for the defense was introduced at the morning session when Dr. Fall, president of the company, was placed upon the stand and testified that he had issued positive instructions to the clerks in the store not to sell liquor to minors even upon a prescription and in no case to sell pint bottles. Clerk MacManners was called and swore that he was in the store upon the night of the alleged sale and he did not remember Forrest Holliman being in the store. Clerk Lowark testified that he is the prescription clerk and in charge during the absence of Dr. Fall. He was in the store on the night of the alleged sale but could not remember Holliman, whom he knew well, to have been in the store.

The court expressed the opinion that the prosecution had established the case, and that the defense had not only violated the law of selling in less quantity than one quart but had violated the state law in selling to a minor. The maximum penalty of $300 and costs was imposed. Notice of appeal was given.

OVER HUNDRED AUTOS OWNED IN THIS CITY

Two more automobile licenses were issued yesterday by City Clerk K. M. MacMillan, making a total of 101 licenses now held by auto owners in this city.

City Engineer R. H. Ashworth has completed running the lines for the fencing of the city water shed in the vicinity of Seven Lakes, and Superintendent J. A. Hopkins escorted a number of men to that section yesterday, and will rush the fence building as rapidly as possible.

Will Francis and William Mason were convicted of vagrancy in the police court yesterday morning, and in default of cash to pay fines of $10 and costs will labor on the rock pile for six days. Two others were given two hours in which to leave the city or go to work. There are now 20 men confined in the city jail.

OFFICIAL ALTITUDE OF EL PASO COUNTY

Six thousand and four feet. That is the official altitude of the El Paso county court house at the level of the first floor.

This was declared yesterday by the United States geological surveyors, Messrs. Anderson and Barrett, who have been in and around Colorado Springs for several days to survey the Garden of the Gods and make other important observations.

While here the surveyors stopped at the Spaulding house. They left the city last night for Fountain where they have some work in hand.

TWO MORE CREEKS OF A FATAL DEATH

Jo Barnett, the colored laborer whose foot was crushed Wednesday when the wheels of a moving D. & R. G. passenger train under which he was stealing a ride, is an old employe of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, having worked for that corporation for some years at Pueblo. Friday and took her husband from St. Francis hospital here to the C. F. & I. hospital at Pueblo. The amputation of the foot will be necessary.

When Barnett came from under the influence of all the narcotics yesterday he told a thrilling tale of his night on the passenger coach trucks with the unknown tramp who kicked him under the moving wheels. Gravel and dust filled their eyes and the roar of the flying train filled their ears. The tramp wasted the trucks to himself at the first stop. It was all they could do to hold on for their lives with their hands while they fought with their feet. For either to slip meant almost certain death. Besides, it was dark except for the uncertain illumination of an occasional spark from the engine. If they opened their mouths to speak they were choked. If they opened their eyes to peer into the dark they were blinded with hot cinders. The rushing wind gathered up stones the size of an egg from the roadbed and the flying missiles struck and bruised them.

After what seemed an age the train whistled and the station lights glimmered dimly ahead. As the train slowed down the tramp called to the negro to get off. Barnett refused. The fight was renewed and before the train had stopped the tramp gave him a vicious shove in a moment when he was off guard and he went sprawling and helpless under the yet moving wheels. His right foot fell prostrate upon the track, his body rolling well from beneath the train, one wheel passed over the foot and the light of reason died in the injured man's eyes as the world swooned from out of sight and the groaning unconscious monster of iron came to a full stop. The train crew found the injured man weltering in blood, but the tramp was nowhere in sight.

POLICEMAN TO LOOP THE LOOP

CAPTAIN STEWART HAS MAN TO DO TRICK FOR $50, TO BE PAID BY GASKILL SHOWS.

Captain Stewart of the city police force has created a sensation among the Gaskill shows' staff by declaring that he has a man on his force who is willing to loop the loop after the fashion of the daring Babcock. The carnival management will pay the officer $50 if he succeeds and will make side bets that the policeman will not stay with the cycline.

Captain Stewart is certain that his man can make good. The time and details have not yet been determined and Captain Stewart has not told who is his man. The dash is 300 feet and is made in about four and one-half seconds. The wheel weighs 150 pounds and the secret of the trick is an iron nerve. An instant's waver means death.

Former Chief of Police William S. Reynolds has been appointed to a position in the state department of insurance.

PROMISE SOME GOOD CONVENTION

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS WILL SECURE I. T. U. GATHERING AND LETTER CARRIERS HOME.

Two delegations of prominent business men called upon the board of county commissioners yesterday, one of business men from the south end, the other from the Chamber of Commerce.

The delegation from the south end was composed of George S. Elstun, proprietor of the Alamo hotel; J. A. Himebaugh, proprietor of the Spaulding house, and W. H. Meier, of the Colorado Springs Steam laundry. The purpose of the visit was to request the commissioners to permit band concerts in the court house park. A petition was recently signed by nearly all of the business men south of Pike's Peak avenue, and presented to the city council asking that concerts be given in the South park, and the merchants were informed that the city was ready any time the consent of the county commissioners was obtained to the arrangement. The commissioners took the matter under advisement.

The delegation from the Chamber of Commerce was headed by T. E. Fisher, Secretary Wray and others, and was for the purpose of soliciting a donation to assist in sending a delegation to Toronto to work for the next session of the International Typographical union to be held in this city, also to send a delegation to Portland, Ore., to attend the session of the Letter Carriers and work for the location of their proposed national home in this city. The commissioners promised to donate $500 to the chamber for these purposes.

WOMEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convincingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Mrs. Mary Dimmick

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstruation—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 50th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—it saved her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

Cheerfully Recommended for Rheumatism.

O. C. Higbee, Danville, Ills., writes, Dec. 2, 1901: "About two years ago I was laid up for four months with rheumatism. I tried Ballard's Snow Liniment; one bottle cured me.

I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering from like affliction. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

Wall Street Brokers Now View Market Conditions With More Favor.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Stock brokers regarded the moderation in the [illegible] an important development and to this was attributed in no small part the change from the extreme apathy of the market. The increase in interest proved to be amongst the sellers and prices suffered accordingly. In addition to the change in the weather there were some developments of importance in financial affairs. First place was given in stock market estimation to the Union Pacific dividend declaration, putting that stock on a five per cent basis, as against the recently prevailing four per cent rate. This action was no surprise and has been confidently expected for weeks. The response of the market to the news was watched, however, with keen attention to form a judgment as now far existing prices have already discounted expected favorable departments.

The decline in prices yesterday on the Illinois Central dividend was ascribed to the fact that the regular dividend was declared to be still six per cent with the increase designated an extra dividend. The similar reaction in Union Pacific today on the rise in the dividend rate emphasized the impression that buying in anticipation again in the Hill stocks on reiterated rumors of an extra distribution of assets on those stocks which were persistent in spite of the public denial of them by the head of those systems. The present market is so largely based on expectation of increased disbursement of profits that this condition of the speculation is deemed important.

Bonds have not shared in the recent advance nor have the preferred stocks on which the return is restricted to a fixed dividend rate.

Great importance was attached to the reports of reviving demand in the iron and steel trades but this seemed to lack enough influence to stem the reactionary tendency from other factors. Reports of crop damage were associated with the strength of the wheat market but an oversold condition in that market was suspected. The market closed heavy.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,462,000.

U. S. bonds were unchanged on last call.

MARKET SPRINGS

Reported Damage to Wheat by Black Rust Brought Urgent Demand.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Notwithstanding excellent weather for crops, the wheat market was strong from the start. At the opening the September option was up ⅛ to 1 at 85¼@85⅝. Shorts were urgent bidders for September. Commission houses also were in general eager to buy.

The cause of the pressing demand was reported confirmation of damage to spring wheat by black rust. Advices from Minneapolis and Duluth giving alleged specific details concerning the spread of the black rust in Minnesota and South Dakota caused consternation among shorts. In addition a report from Liverpool told of damage to the Russian crop. September advanced to 88. Late in the session the market receded somewhat on heavy profit taking but the close was strong with September 2¼ higher at 85¾.

Corn was dull. September closed unchanged at 54⅞.

Oats were firm. September closed up ⅛ at 29⅝.

Provisions were weak on fairly active selling by packers. At the close September pork was off 15, lard was down 10@12½, and ribs were 15@17½ lower.

TO DEMONSTRATE EXTENT OF NEW ORE DISCOVERY.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 20.—J. J. Winters, operating block 44 of the Anaconda territory, is pushing operations as fast as possible to demonstrate the exact extent of the big find recently made there, which promises to be one of the biggest ever opened on the property. The ore was encountered at a comparatively shallow depth, and is showing everywhere where the operators are working. It is measuring from four to five feet in width, and their assays indicate that the rock will run in the neighborhood of four ounces to the ton in gold.

ELKTON SHUTS DOWN 6 WEEKS FOR REPAIRS

The shaft of the Elkton mine will be closed for six weeks to allow necessary repairs to be made, according to Sherwood Aldrich, one of the directors. The shaft will be retimbered on the upper levels and while the work is in progress, the production of the big mine will be practically stopped.

INDIGESTION.

With its companions, heart burn, flatulence, torpidity of the liver, constipation, palpitation of the heart, poor blood, headache and other nervous symptoms, sallow skin, foul tongue, offensive breath and a legion of other ailments, is at once the most widespread and destructive malady among the American people. The Herbine treatment will cure all these troubles. 50c bottle. Sold by Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

ORE IS IMPROVING WITH DEVELOPMENT

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 20.—The ore shoot that was opened up recently by Pernbaur and associates on the Rattler property on Raven hill is improving as development work proceeds. The ore shoot was encountered in a cross vein at the 100-foot level and it is believed it extends the full length of the claim. The ore shoot is showing a width of two to four feet and the ore is running in the neighborhood of two ounces to the ton in gold. The rock shows considerable free gold.

Heretofore lessees who have operated the property have confined their operations to what was supposed to be the main vein, and never explored the cross veins, where the values are now being found.

The claim contains in the neighborhood of seven or eight acres of ground. The lease runs for four years, and the royalties paid to the company will apply on the purchase price.
